Nominee Name(s) and Agency:

Amy Williams, Forensic Scientist Supervisor, Latent Print Unit, Denver Police Department Crime Lab

Brief summary of reason for nomination: Approximately 5 years ago, Amy created the DPD Crime Lab Case Association Spreadsheet. This has linked thousands of offenses to individuals by their fingerprints, providing quick, actionable intelligence to Detectives who can get warrants for individuals for multiple crimes.

Detailed information (attach additional pages as necessary):
The Case Association List, created by Williams, currently has 5,000 individuals who's fingerprints have been identified to latent prints collected from crime scenes and evidence. Whenever an individual is identified by latent fingerprints, their SID number and case information is entered into the spreadsheet. The spreadsheet automatically provides information to earlier entries, if any, with that SID number. In this way, this system connects individuals to criminal incidents by latent fingerprints. This was initially only used within Denver PD and was very successful. Last year, crime labs across the front range were invited to participate. Since then this system has been linking individuals to crimes via latent prints across the state. This innovation has provided intelligence to Detectives who can link cases to individuals across Districts, cities, and jurisdictions. For example, a Detective in Lakewood would be informed that an individual who's fingerprints were identified to a stolen car in their case, also had fingerprint identified in a stolen car in a Denver case. Never before has there been a way to connect cases and share investigative information like this.
